English	Writing Map		Reading Spine
	Theme	Anglo Saxons and Scots
	Main text	The Kelpie
	Text type and focus	Conquering the monster Focus: description
	Poetry	Observational poetry linked to The Kelpie
	Non-fiction	Recounts/ Newspaper report linked to the capture of the Kelpie
Mathematics	Maths No Problem Chapter 3- Multiplication and division Chapter 4 – Further multiplication and division
Science	Working Scientifically Links to the statutory programme of study: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Can they ask relevant questions and using different types of scientific enquiries to answer them</li> <li>• Can they set up simple practical enquiries and comparative tests</li> <li>• Can they make systematic and careful observations and, where appropriate, take accurate measurements using standard units, using a range of equipment, including thermometers and data loggers</li> <li>• Can they gather, record, classify and present data in a variety of ways to help answer questions</li> <li>• Can they record findings using simple scientific language, drawings, labelled diagrams, keys, bar charts, and tables</li> <li>• Can they report on findings from enquiries, including oral and written explanations, displays or presentations of results and conclusions</li> <li>• Can they use results to draw simple conclusions, make predictions for new values, suggest improvements and raise further questions</li> <li>• Can they identify differences, similarities or changes related to simple scientific ideas and processes</li> <li>• Can they use straightforward scientific evidence to answer questions or to support their findings.</li> </ul> Non-statutory notes &amp; guidance: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Can they group &amp; classify a variety of different materials using a range of criteria?</li> <li>• Can they make observations about the effect of temperature on different substances (avoid observing situations where the effect of temperature changes a substance e.g. baking bread dough)?</li> <li>• Can they undertake research to explore the temperatures at which changes of state occur in a range of materials?</li> <li>• Can they raise questions relating to the effects of time/environment on solids, liquids &amp; gases e.g. puddles after rain, washing on the line, snowmen...</li> <li>• Can they explore ways in which to investigate &amp; find the answers to their questions?</li> </ul> Some topics require children to 'make observations and notice changes over time. The provision for these topics often requires an earlier start than the term which has been designated for delivery. In year 4 that topic is: Living things and their habitats. This topic requires planning for making observations throughout the school year. A suggested learning journey re making observations over time is: Set up observations early on during the school year by showing the children a couple of photos or a youtube video illustrating the effects of the passing of time in relation to the focus phenomena e.g. two pictures of the school grounds, one taken during late autumn and the other in late spring. Use these as the basis for a session raising scientific questions to be investigated. With the children's involvement identify 2 or 3 questions to focus upon re exploring further. Designate a display board on which to capture observations over a period of time e.g. throughout the school year. Collect observations, children's drawings &amp; observation notes (e.g. of birds and animals seen) &amp; photographs throughout the year and display these on the display board in sequence. Involve the children in collecting the data/observations relating to the phenomena to investigate, contrast &amp; compare noting the significant changes and observations/learning can be pulled together in order to determine what has been found in relation to the children's initial questions. Mini plenaries could be held towards the end of each term noting any significant changes throughout the previous half term and prompting children to wonder about/predict what will happen next.

	States of Matter <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Can they compare and group materials together, according to whether they are solids, liquids or gases?</li> <li>• Can they explain what happens to materials when they are heated or cooled?</li> <li>• Can they measure or research the temperature at which different materials change state in degrees Celsius?</li> <li>• Can they use measurements to explain changes to the state of water?</li> <li>• Can they identify the part that evaporation and condensation has in the water cycle?</li> <li>• Can they associate the rate of evaporation with temperature?</li> <li>• Can they group and classify a variety of materials according to the impact of temperature on them?</li> <li>• Can they explain what happens overtime to materials such as puddles on the playground or washing hanging on a line?</li> <li>• Can they relate temperature to change of state of materials?</li> </ul>
History	Possible starting point / stimulus: History off the page workshop  Map showing Anglo-saxon kingdoms Britain's settlement by Anglo-Saxons and Scots This could include these events: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Roman withdrawal from Britain in c.
